Modern Light

Jason Miller, the guy who wowed the design world with his antler chandelier in 2003, is expanding his horizons. For the first collection of his new company, Roll & Hill, Miller has recruited contributors like Paul Loebach, Lindsey Adelman, Partners & Spade, and Rich Brilliant Willing, whose towering Excel lamp was until now produced only to order in a tiny studio on Manhattan's Lower East Side. But don't sweat it: Roll & Hill plans to start with only a few hundred copies of each lamp, so you won't see the light of your life everywhere. Monica Khemsurav
